URGE COOPERATION

We anticipate that all banks in other cotton states would immediately join Texas in this move, which would result in supplying such demand as exists, at approximately cost of the production of the cotton and preserve a fair collateral value to the balance of the crop to be carried by the St. Louis and other financing plans.

We believe that the users of cotton would look with great favor upon any move tending to stabilize cotton values.

The president of the Texas Bankers' Association has called a meeting to be held in Dallas on the 23rd, that, we hope you will be present and help us to make this move to support the price of cotton, as well as to finance the surplus, State-wide and, in turn, cover the entire cotton-growing South.
